

Foundation Announces Scholarship Availability, Woodbury Partnership

Soon to celebrate its 25th anniversary, the non-profit Screen Actors Guild Foundation is happy to once again announce availability of applications for the John L. Dales Scholarship.

Just one of the many free programs offered by the SAG Foundation to assist, educate and inspire SAG actors, the John L. Dales Scholarship Fund already has provided more than $6 million in scholarships to qualified Guild members and their children seeking their educational potential at accredited institutions. Two types of scholarships are available: Standard scholarships benefit eligible members and children of eligible members for college education. Transitional scholarships are designed to assist SAG members seeking further education to change careers.

An innovative new partnership provides added benefit to Dales Scholarship recipients planning to attend Woodbury University. Located in Burbank, Woodbury University will match the scholarship awarded by the SAG Foundation for any student who uses that award to enroll in one of its undergraduate or graduate programs.

Printable applications and further details can be found at www.sagfoundation.org/scholarships. Submissions must be post-marked no later than March 15, 2010, to qualify.
